BOSS BATTLES INSTRUCTION MANUAL 2022

BOSS BATTLES

Join The Quest To Beat MS!

We are excited to have you join us for the Boss Battles campaign and in our quest to beat MS. Thank you so much for helping raise funds and awareness for the cause. You are helping to change lives.

This guide will help you navigate some common questions for setting up your charity stream. Don't hesitate to reach out to us if you have any questions!

About Boss Battles

Adding some extra fun to FUNdraising, we've designed this month-long campaign as an adventure. Our volunteers have designed eight bosses that we collectively defeat through the course of the month through fundraising! Our goal to beat the main game is $25,000—we start the count on July 1! The campaign takes place through all of July—and whether you can do one stream, a week, or the whole month, you can help make a difference!

The bosses will be revealed on our social media through the month of June, so before the start of the July campaign. We've included the boss strength totals below for those curious. This is a collective total of all those who register, meaning every dollar raised helps beat the bosses.

You can register as an individual or sign up as a team and get friends involved. Either way, you're still part of the bigger Boss Battles campaign, with the aim to beat the bosses and help end MS.

BOSS BATTLES

Boss Strength

Boss 1 - $1000
Boss 2 - $2500
Boss 3 - $4500
Boss 4 - $7000

Boss 5 - $10000
Boss 6 - $14000
Boss 7 - $19000
Boss 8 - $25000

Side Quests

During the month of July, we will also have a list of “collective Side Quests.” After all, no modern game would be complete without some side quests. These will be things that anyone, from streamers to their community members, can help with and raise awareness to our campaign!

What if we beat the bosses early? Do we stop fundraising?

Amazing! We hope that happens but we also wanted to make this first Boss Battles campaign realistic. With enough of us, we know we can take down those eight bosses. Don't stop fundraising though! If we hit $25,000, we MAY just have some post game content – after all, many games do. And besides that, we can all keep going and set the first “Boss Battles” high score. The plan right now is to make this a regular event for Gamers Vs MS, so let's us all make this first one an incredible adventure – together.

Leading Up To The Stream

- Change the panel at the top of your info section on Twitch to explain that this particular stream is for charity. Put the name of the charity, and encourage donations not bits in this section.
- Change your donate link (in bio or commands) to your donation campaign. You may also set up a bot command and bot timer in your chat to occasionally remind people what is going on and how they can donate.
- Be sure to add a browser source for the donation alerts. This source will either be found on your Tiltify campaign back-end OR if you link it to something like streamlabs, you use that browser source. The browser source lets your donations show up in real time on your stream, so you can thank your donors as they donate!

- A reminder to discourage cheer bit donations. Only the donations are expected to be donated during this time, it's up to streamers if they choose to donate any or all revenue received from cheer bits during this time.
- To discourage bits you can change your minimum bit donation to something really high. But it's not required, only a suggestion. Be sure to turn it back down after your charity stream, though.
- Feel free to promote the option to donate to family and friends. While not all family and friends understand the "Twitch life" many of them will be open to donating, as you are doing the stream for an awesome cause.
- Pre-fundraising, that is getting donations before your stream, but adding them during your stream is a good way to hype donations and all increase the amount of funds your stream raised.
- Feel free to post on social media leading up to your charity stream(s). Ideas for posts on your social media include: reminders that the event is coming up, facts about MS and the MS Society, when you go live, part-way progress through your charity stream, etc.
- Use the hashtag #GVMBossBattles for social media posts.
- Incentives! This is not a requirement but does generally help with fundraising and add to the fun of the charity stream. There are multiple ways to do incentives, though the common two are per donation of a certain amount (incentives) and then total goals

BOSS BATTLES

(milestones) for the stream. So for example, you may have every $10, you eat a bean boozled bean, or spin some wheel! Or for the milestone goals, you might say you want to raise $1,000 during your stream, so you set a goal for 250, 500, 750, etc. You can do incentives however you want, for whatever amount you want, and mix & match as you want.

- Some successful examples of incentives we have seen include eating things like bean boozled, warheads, or something you don't love. Putting on an outfit or costume for a certain goal. If you're an artist, some people do art giveaways or do a quick art doodle for every donation. And of course, feel free to think of your own and make it your own!
- We do have assets that you can use if you would like. Things like the GvM logo, a layout, or sound alerts. We will be adding and updating this over time! You can find the resource page on the Gamers Vs MS website or our Discord channels.
- Another bonus thing, if you've ever used Crowd Control or wanted to give it a try, then we are on Crowd Control! For more on how to make Crowd Control work with your Gamers Vs MS streams, visit <https://info.tiltify.com/support/solutions/articles/43000573248-integrate-crowd-control>
- Besides the assets, we have also included a branding guide in this manual. Please don't let this overwhelm you. This is for IF you want to use these things. The most important thing is to raise awareness, some funds, and have fun. Everything else is supplementary.

BOSS BATTLES

First Steps

1. Register on the “Boss Battles 2022” Tiltify event page. You can find this link on our website, as well as Twitter! Make sure you register under this event for it to count in the campaign total.
2. Choose the date(s) and time for your event—or if you’re planning a multi-day or even month-long fundraising, pick that! If you are already a streamer with a normal schedule, you should pick a day and time that fits into your normal schedule. If doing a different day, be sure to actively promote it so that people are aware it’s happening. This will ensure that many of your community members are already available or used to you streaming at that time.
3. Tiltify has a lot of cool features to help customize your streaming and fundraising, so be sure to set some time aside to learn and navigate through them. It doesn’t have to be too complicated -- it’s your stream and you do what you feel reflects you. But these tools may help you in your goals. These include an incentive feature, milestone feature, and alerts section.
4. Setting donation goals! This one is always tough for people who are worried about setting it too high or low. Our opinion is: believe in yourself! There’s no failing when you support charity and if you don’t hit the goal you planned, you have still raised funds and awareness for a good cause. However, if you want to ensure you hit the Gamers Vs MS rewards for 2022: $200 or more gets you a limited edition 2022 Gamers Vs MS T-Shirt, and raising $1000 or more gets you a limited edition 2022 Gamers Vs MS Medallion! (Canada and US address only).
5. Now that you’re all set up, it’s time to promote! It’s always a good idea to promote your charity stream as much as possible for maximum impact. There are a variety of ways you can do that, from posting about it on your social media—like Twitter, Facebook, or Instagram—and mentioning it during your streams leading up to the event.
6. Join our discord community. You can find the link on <http://www.gamersvsms.ca> located at the bottom of the page. The discord community will keep you up to date on all things with the campaign, as well as a place for resources, and most importantly, a chance to see what your fellow fundraisers are saying.

Setting Up Your Tiltify on OBS, Sounds, and More

The best part of streaming live during events like this is the live interaction. Seeing and hearing donations pop up in real time. So you want to make sure you have your Tiltify properly set-up, and while this isn't a catch-all guide for that, we hope it'll help you along.

1. In your Tiltify campaign, you'll see a number of tabs on the top including overview, incentives, manage, messages, and overlays! You'll want to take a few minutes to familiarize yourself with these pages and fill out which parts you think will be helpful with your campaign.
2. The most important one is "overlays." This is where you set up how things will appear on your stream screen. You can of course create a "blank one" but it's best to start with "default" and build from there.
3. Use "copy url" and use this URL as a browser source in OBS—or whatever program you are using—to make it appear on your stream layout! You'll see above the "add widget" function the correct dimensions to set the browser source.
4. For the alert box, the default is "no sound" and a generic pop-up for every donation. You can change this by editing the alert box option and adding a sound, the volume, duration, a gif, and the minimum amount needed to activate it. We recommend picking a sound as it does add to the excitement of the stream! IF you want to use your own alerts and sounds, see the bonus section where you can add tiltify to streamlabs.

Bonus: For those of you who want to use your own sounds for the stream, we recommend connecting your tiltify to your streamlabs account.

For more on how to do this, a stream coach named Trui has a great video on this:
